Dear TVLC BOD & Dr. Lysko,

The morning of the scheduled Special Meeting for TVLC BOD, I woke up at 3 am thinking about the importance of right relationships. Businesses, both for profit enterprises as well as non-profit 501c3's work to prioritize the most important relationships. It left me wondering what relationships the BOD wishes to foster and cultivate at this time. Who do you wish to build trust with?

When we cultivate honest relationships, we build trust with our children by telling them the truth, by being as transparent as possible with our actions and words, and by acting in good faith.

As Father Mark Weisner reminded me last Sunday, we do not tell our children we will be there half the time for them. We love them and are there for them every day. That relationship with our children is our priority. There are no half measures when it comes to our children.

I'm curious to know which relationships the TVLC BOD wishes to cultivate at this time? What relationships are your priorities?

Is the priority relationship with CPA? Do you wish to grow in trust with our former CEO and always be available to him and his needs?

Or, does the board wish to cultivate trust with the children, parents and TVLC stakeholders? Is the greatest good for our children and the values we teach them the relationship priority?

It seems to me, it is becoming increasingly difficult for TVLC to "serve two masters".

Which relationship is your priority? CPA or the children?

You have the opportunity to show us that priority with every agenda item to allow through next week and every vote you make. Please use that opportunity wisely and vote no on obtaining the permit for the parking lot. Make our children and their education your priority again.

Sincerely,

Katherine Koziowski
